Why livestock greenhouse gas emissions matter in Africa

Published 15 Oct 2022

At ILRI's Mazingira Centre, a protocol has been developed that has been used to derive the first accurate Tier 2 emission factors for smallholder livestock systems in Africa. The research is informing ways of reducing emissions per kilogram of milk and meat produced by improving the productivity of African livestock.

Resource type

Video

